

LAST INFORMAL OF SEASON TO-NIGHT

Union Ball Room Once More Scene of Festivity

Ignoring all whispered rumours of the ill luck which attends those who venture out on Friday, the 13th, a merry crowd will gather this evening at 8.30 in the Union Ball Room for the last informal of this season.

The dancers will find themselves enjoying the delightful music supplied by Fred Gross and his musicians, in the midst of beautifully decorated surroundings. The exact nature of the artistic effects is unknown but all those attending will find a pleasant surprise in store for them.

It has been decided to re-adopt the "sit down" supper for the occasion two sittings being arranged if necessary in order to accommodate comfortably all those who seek refreshments.

Many will be the happy people who will turn their footsteps homeward in the wee small hours of St. Valentine's Day.

HOCKEY TEAM LEAVE FOR KINGSTON

R.V.C. and M.S.P.E. to Play Exhibition Game

FRIDAY, FEB. 13.

Team in Good Condition to Meet Queen's

The final preparations have been completed in connection with the proposed trip of the M. S. P. E.—R. V. C. Hockey Team to Kingston. In compliance with an invitation from Queen's, a team composed of six M. S. P. E. and four R. V. C. girls has been chosen to play an exhibition game at Kingston on Friday, February the thirteenth.

The picked team had a splendid workout Wednesday afternoon in the Forum. Mr. Shaughnessy had the players lined up much as they will play at Kingston, thus giving them an opportunity to practise combination plays and to become accustomed to playing on a large sheet of ice.

Although the superstitious minded would have one believe that Friday the thirteenth is doomed to bring ill-luck, there is every indication that on this date the M. S. P. E.—R. V. C. Hockey Team will distinguish themselves at vancouver's.

The line up of the team is as follows:

Centre:—O. Montgomery.
Sub. F. Stockings.
Right Wing:—D. Hucheson.
Sub.:—M. Burton.
Left Wing:—M. Kensi.
Sub.:—E. Hinchinson.
Defence:—C. Robertson, M. Robertson.
Sub.:—J. Plumtre.
Goal:—C. Ballard.

SERVICE AT HALL SUNDAY MORNING

Student's Day of Prayer Will be Observed

On Sunday, February 15th, at 10.30 a.m., in the S.C.A. room of Strathcona Hall, a short service will be held in connection with the Students' Day of Prayer. R. J. Smith, of the Congregational College, and Miss Marion Ferguson will take part. The service will last for only half an hour, and will be open to all who are interested.

The students' day of prayer will be observed by means of similar meetings at the same time all over the world, particularly in the universities and collegiate institutions of the larger cities of Canada. The practice of holding such services has become popular during the past few years, the purpose being a sane and honest facing of the problems that are confronting students to-day in the light of the highest ideals that are known.

The service on Sunday will be simple as well as short. A few hymns, a reading and a brief talk will be the main items. The meeting will be open to the whole University, no restrictions being made as to either race or creed.

ENTERTAINING AFTERNOON AT THE R.V.C.

Delta Sigma Society Stages Four Plays

VARIED PROGRAMME

Students of Different Years Display Their Dramatic Ability

Pierrots, Queens, the domineering husband, the long suffering wife, milkmaids, harlequins, and the serious minded daughter with the futuristic tendencies, were assembled promiscuously in the R.V.C. Common Room yesterday afternoon when the Delta Sigma Society presented a programme of four plays.

It is an annual custom in the Literary and Debating Society, that on one afternoon of the session the students of the different years be given a chance to display their dramatic ability. This event has always been eagerly anticipated by upper classmen, and the freshmen look forward in no less degree to a performance which, in addition to its other merits has the advantage over a matinee at His Majesty's in the fact that one can see it for nothing, without even the humiliation of having to sit in the gods.

First Year's Faery playlet, "Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil" came first on the programme. It is the story of a boy who sheltered the Queen at the time when she was to be beheaded for stepping on the ring toe of the King's great aunt. The boy was charmingly played by Miss C. Tytle while the Queen was represented by Miss V. Hulin. The significance of the title comes from the fact that six people pass the cottage where the Queen is hidden, and invite the Boy to go with them to the decapitation. The five besides the Queen, who pass are the Mime, the Milkmaid, the Blind man, the Ballad Singer and the Headman. These parts were taken by Miss E. Brooks, Miss J. Oleskes, Miss M. Morentford, Miss J. Eve and Miss M. Brock. Miss A. Langueodec and Miss M. MacDonnell, A Langueodec were the Prologue and "You". They carried on an animated conversation while the six passed before the cottage.

The act given by the Second year was amusing and very true to life. The play was "The Twelve Pound Look" by Sir James Barrie. Miss J. Belays portrayed in a most realistic manner Harry Sims. A man whose religion is Success. The scene takes place the day before he is in the height of his glory. Miss P. Featherston in the role of the long suffering wife who listened to all Sir Harry's bombastic speeches with a patience most surely born of virtue was a great success.

Some of the best acting was done by Miss I. Hasley who came on as a stenographer and was later discovered to be the wife who had run away from Sims fourteen years ago. In giving her reasons for deserting her husband, Barrie analyses the self-satisfied man of business, and explains that the "Twelve Pound Look" can be seen on the unhappy wife's face as soon as she realizes that she is independent of her husband and can get out into the world and learn her own living.

The Juniors' act suffered somewhat from the fact that two of the original cast were not able to perform and substitutes had to take their places. The play "The Wonder Hat," a dainty harlequinade and a picturization of the attitudes of the of the immortal Pierrot and Harlequin towards Columbine. Miss E. Cossman and Miss R. Martin were the rivals in the pursuit of Columbine's affections, although both professed to be utterly biased in their opinion of women.

Miss F. Stockings made a most delightful Columbine and the parts of Margot and Punctichello were capably filled by Miss W. Griffin and Miss R. Ward.

At the conclusion of the third play tea was served by members of the Society. Afterwards the Senior presented "Evening Dress Indispensable" an amusing comedy and a satire on the girl who poses as one who cares nothing for pleasure and wishes only to improve her mind. The men's parts in this act were particularly well played by Miss K. Perrin as Mr. Geoffrey Chandler, a young

DR. TAIT TO SPEAK ON HEMORRHAGES

Illustrated Address in the Biological Building

A meeting of the Biological Society will be held to-night at 5 p.m. in the main lecture theatre of the Biological Building, when Professor John Tait will deliver an illustrated address on "Natural Arrest of Haemorrhage from a Wound". The subject is one in which any student who uses a razor will find entertainment and instruction, and even the experienced surgeon may discover in it points of novel interest.

Most animals have blood of some kind and they would run the risk of bleeding to death from even the slightest wound, were it not that special processes are called into play by which the rupture is sealed. The accepted view of the textbooks is that the patching up of the torn vessel is done by coagulation of the blood. Dr. Tait, who has made an extensive series of direct observations of bleeding under the microscope, will show that an entirely different mechanism is involved, and that we owe the preservation of our life in the face of recurring cuts and bruises to special blood cells which are immediately mobilised to dam the outflowing rush of blood. The smart work of this emergency squad will be illustrated with lantern photographs and the question will be raised whether blood coagulation has anything in particular to do with the stopping of wounds.

Anyone who is interested in the engineering arrangements of the animal body should enjoy this lecture, which is correlated with a number of researches that are at present being carried on in the Physiology Department.

R.V.C. BASKET-BALL TEAM LEAVE SOON

Intercollegiate Meet on Feb. 26th, 27th and 28th.

IN TORONTO

Three Regulars of Last Year's Team Still Remain

In less than a fortnight the R.V.C. basketball team will leave for Toronto where they will be joined by Queen's as guests of Varsity during the intercollegiate basketball meet R. V. C. will play Queen's on Feb. 26th and Varsity on the 27th, while Varsity and Queen's are scheduled to play on Feb. 28th.

This will be the fourth season for the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball and for the second time they meet will be held in Toronto. While the visiting teams are provided with hospitality by the home team, being quartered at the various residences of the University. These matches occurring as they do once a year are eminently successful and are an important factor in strengthening a spirit of friendship between the three Universities.

Last year the meet was held in Kingston where Varsity and McGill were the guests of Queen's. On that occasion Varsity succeeded in winning the championship by defeating McGill in the final game by a score of 15-12 after overtime play. Toronto are therefore the present holders of the intercollegiate trophy which was presented by McGill Students' Council in 1923. The results of these games to date is as follows:—

1922 Varsity
1923 McGill
1924 Varsity

This year the R. V. C. basketball team are travelling to Toronto determined to do their utmost to regain the championship and the trophy. The team has been practising faithfully and as a result of their conscientious work and the excellent coaching of Miss Cartwright a decided improvement has been made since the early part of the season. In defeating both Englishman, and Miss P. McMaster as Mr. George Connaught, an older man in love with Mrs. Waverling who was played by Miss L. Norris. Mrs. Waverling suddenly blossoms out and for a time completely outshines her literary daughter Sheila, played by Miss E. Farley.

Sheila however, shows that the blue stocking pose was a mere phase in her life and at the end of the play she expresses her desire to "dance until dawn" with Geoffrey Chandler. Miss Jean Gurd read a humorous prologue to the Seniors' act.

RED AND WHITE REVIEW.

An important meeting of the Red and White Review Committee will be held at the Union at 5 o'clock to-day.

COMMERCE BANQUET IS NEXT WEEK

Chancellor to Speak at Notable Session

AT MOUNT ROYAL Substantial Reduction in Price of Tickets

Plans are now almost complete for the Annual Commerce banquet to be held in the Mount Royal Hotel, February 19th. This promises to be an elaborate affair and no efforts have been spared by the committee to make it a huge success.

The principal speaker of the evening will be E. W. Beatty, Chancellor of McGill who will speak on Captains of Industry. There will be other speeches by many prominent business men of Canada representing large industrial financial institutions. About thirty guests have been invited.

The main object of the banquet is to renew the ties of acquaintance between these men and the school of Commerce. Not one man in the school of Commerce can afford to miss the inspiring addresses and the good time that is assured.

A favorable feature of this year's banquet is the great reduction in the price of tickets—Formerly the tickets sold at $5 but this year they may be had for the small sum of $3. This should prove a great drawing card to all Commercialities and a large attendance is expected.

Ariel's Mortal Lover

(Margaret Amy Ross)

My lady Ariel,
Hath stolen my heart,
Where she hath hidden it none can tell,
She hath bound her tresses with blossoms from the bough,
And she hath wound my senses with a faerie spell.

My lady Ariel
Hath laughed my soul away;
Enchanted am I with the songs she sings;
All the woods are filled with music,
And the winds with elfin pipes;
And the misty air of twilight is alive with shining wings.

My lady Ariel
Lures me night and day;
She bids me find her dwelling place,
And worship her awhile;
But though I seek her through the vales,
And call her o'er the hills,
She flits amongst the gold-lapped clouds
And mocks me with a smile.

SECOND MUSICAL TO BE HELD IN UNION

The McGill Music Club will hold its second musicale Sunday, February 22 in the Ballroom of the Union at 3.30 p.m. Mrs. William Ewing, a well known local soprano will sing and Miss Mary Izard a noted violinist will render several selections. The rest of the programme will consist of numbers supplied by the students and promises to be excellent.

To those who attended the first musicale nothing need be said regarding the ability and success of the music club.

A large attendance is hoped for and everyone should avail himself of the opportunity of hearing some good music.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Because of an estimated over-abundance of news and special articles for this issue, correspondence received yesterday is held over for publication in to-morrow's issue of the Daily.

STUNT NIGHT TO INCLUDE BIG CIRCUS

Songs and Dances by R.V.C. and M.S.P.E.

SPANISH COMEDY

Performance to be at Strathcona Hall Next Wednesday

"A circus is coming to town!" Of all thrilling words of tongue or pen surely these are most universally appealing to children. It is remarkable too, how many adults always appear at the circus, no doubt from a strong sense of duty acting as escorts to young circus fans in view of this fact. It may be predicted that there will be an atmosphere of subdued excitement when it is announced that a real live circus is to perform at Strathcona Hall next Wednesday evening.

This is only one of the items which will contribute to the charm of the delightful occasion known as "Stunt Night," which the S. C. A. of R. V. C. is again putting on.

Deep-dyed villains, beautiful heroines and dauntless heroes will act as becomes such characters in a real old-fashioned melodrama calculated to arouse intense excitement in the most blasé theatre goers. A shadow play of the most romantic nature, with a poetical setting in which the rising sun and the rising lark figure prominently will also be enacted. After many blood-curdling scenes the play ends happily with the marriage of the fair heroine to a trillionaire.

Doubtless those who have attended "Stunt Night" in previous years will not forget the old favourite, "A Spanish Tragedy." This will be replaced this year by a Spanish Comedy, with a hero named Patrick and a heroine answering to the novel appellation of Maggie O'Brien.

All the items of the programme are not yet definitely known, but the announcement that the M. S. P. E. will put on a dance and songs is alone sufficient to ensure the success of the evening. There will also be pantomime songs by some members of R. V. C.

Last but not least comes the cheerful news that all this entertainment these heart throbs laugh and tears these thrills and sob may be purchased for the trifling sum of twenty-five cents. It would be wise, however to take with one more of the filthy lure, as home-made candy and refreshments will be sold. The proceeds will be given to the Student Friendship Fund.

DIMINUTIVE DRAMAS TO TAKE PLACE

"Helena's Husband," "Overtones" and "Wurzel Flummery"

ANNUAL EVENT

Alumnae Society Gives Performance on March 6 and 7

The time is drawing near for the staging of one of the most popular features of entertainment at McGill. The Diminutive Dramas, which take place this year on March 6th and 7th are always eagerly awaited and enthusiastically received.

These playlets are presented each year by the McGill Alumnae Society assisted by members of the staff of McGill University.

They afford one outlet to the latent talent that in some cases has been lying dormant all through a student's college career, and has only been brought to light through the efforts of the Alumnae Society. In other instances, members of the University Staff who have been allowed to remain unhonoured and unused, have been known to reveal talents hitherto undreamed of, and have almost permitted their ardor for the stage to usurp their interest in the classroom.

Although the programme this year is somewhat shorter than last year, it is in every way as amusing and entertaining presented by the Alumnae Society, and that is saying a great deal for it.

The first "drama" is "Wurzel Flummery" a comedy of manners. It is a picture of English country life. Col. Thompson takes the part of

INVADING AMERICANS MET DEFEAT IN WELL FOUGHT CONTEST AGAINST MCGILL

Final Score 2-1 — Abbott and O'Donnell Tallying for Red and White — Fryberger Netted Dartmouth's Lone Goal in Brilliant Play — Visitors Fast Skaters and Good Stickhandlers — Cameron Shone in McGill Nets — Only One Penalty Made Game Cleanest of Season.

In the first international hockey match that McGill has played in Canada, the Red and White defeated the Dartmouth sextette by a score of 2-1 last night at the Forum. The game was one of the cleanest seen in intercollegiate hockey circles for a long time, only one penalty being handed out during the entire game.

The visitors put up a splendid fight and several times it looked as though the score might be evened especially towards the end when Dartmouth adopted one man defence tactics. The Green and White were somewhat handicapped as they were accustomed to American hockey where stick-handling plays the important part, and the body is seldom used. Fryberger and Manser seemed to be the best of their squad the forward's speed being very noticeable. Manser's checking stopped many of the McGill attacks which have penetrated their weaker defence.

For the winners, Log, McMahon starred with his individual rushes which almost scored several times. Abbott played well during the first two periods and several times the man from periods but he tried in the last, Mickles played a consistent game through. Lachine turned in some very spectacular play.

The game started out slowly with several attacks by the McGill forwards so that Anthony got more shots than Cameron. He had several hard ones which he looked after very nicely. The work of Fryberger and Everett was very outstanding and Cameron was pelted with many stiff shots from their sticks.

The second period featured much better hockey, Dartmouth playing a score offensive game. Fryberger showed up as the Green and Whites' fastest man, while Abbott and Mickles harassed the Dartmouth defence with numerous rushes. When R. A. Bell came on, during the middle of the period, there was a noticeable livening up on the part of the Red and White and his fast skating and clever stick-handling nearly scored several times. Anthony held the McGill attacks very nicely considering the rather weak defence he had in front of him.

In the last period both teams tried hard to score but without success. The Dartmouth squad played all their men forward but were unable to score even when Hayes drew a penalty and McGill was left short handed.

Both the goalies had a busy time. Anthony having fifty-five shots while Cameron had thirty-nine. There was a lot of close in work which they both handled very nicely.

Rob Logan's band was not in evidence after their strenuous work over the radio the night before but the rooters were ably led by Bill Gilmour and a Dartmouth cheer leader who taught the thundering "1000" how to cheer the "Hawver Way".

FIRST PERIOD

McGill came on the ice first. Wayland was the first to test the Dartmouth goalie, Mickles and Abbott made several rushes keeping the puck into their opponent's ground. Fryberger got away but his shot went wild. Manser, Fryberger and Everett rushed getting the puck close to the Red and White nets. Cameron cleared nicely. McGill nearly scored in a wild mix-up in front of Anthony's goal. Dwyer and Hardy rushed by Abbott back-checked, Mickles got away but was checked by Mills. McGill forwards attacked but shot went wild. Anthony made a nice save after Bell got through the Green defence. Fryberger checks McMahon's rush. An attack by the two Bells was broken up by Hardy's check. Anthony prevented a goal from a difficult angle. Everett and Fryberger made two onslaughts to be stopped by McMahon and Hayes. Wayland shot on Anthony then Fryberger and Mills skated up with a neat shot from the right which Cameron cleared. Dwyer emerged from struggle round the Green end and shot on Cameron's net. Abbott skated behind Anthony's nets and poked one in from the side, making the score 1-0 for McGill.

The McGill forwards kept the puck at the Dartmouth end for a few minutes and Mickles nearly scored from one side.

Donnell scored off a pass from Lachine Bobby Bell, 2-0 for McGill. Fryberger tried to break through McGill defence but he was checked. Thompson took a long shot.

End of period McGill 2-Dartmouth 0.

SECOND PERIOD

The second period began with two rushes by the Dartmouth forwards but Manson's shot went high into the cheap seats. Mickles placed a neat shot which Anthony stopped. Hardy and Manser gave Cameron an exciting time but he kept the puck out safe. Hardy was checked by Mickles who was stopped by the Green defence. Fryberger took the puck from Hayes but did not get near enough to shoot. McMahon attacked but was prevented from shooting by Rowe. Everett and Fryberger advance and the latter poked a nice shot into the corner of Cameron's net, bringing score of 2-1 for McGill. McMahon tried to score with a nice shot which almost evaded Anthony. Hardy and Mills were stopped by the Red and White defence. O'Donnell skated through the defence but was cleverly outplayed by the Dartmouth goalie. Cameron made a beautiful save when Hardy and Manser got inside his defence. With a quick burst of speed Fryberger shot at the McGill net but he went wild. O'Donnell shot the puck and tried to score on a rebound. Anthony stopped a high shot from Mickles. Dwyer tried Cameron with a long shot but he cleared. Mickles came close to Anthony out was buried by the Dartmouth defence. Bobby Bell of Lachine came on and putting pep into the play peppered Anthony with three shots which almost tallied. Abbott and Mickles rushed but couldn't score. Anthony got hit in the face by a shot from Old Bobby Bell but was able to proceed. Manser and Everett were checked by Abbott who brought the spectators to their feet twice with some magnificent shooting. End of second period score McGill 2-Dartmouth 1.

Art. Abbott shot on Anthony who sat on the puck and kept it out of the net. Fryberger took the disc and skated right down the ice but was stopped by Cameron. Hayes shot from centre ice but Anthony stopped. Manser and Rowe took the puck into their opponent's territory but Abbott got it

THEOLOGOS TO HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Canon Shatford Will Be the Speaker of Evening

The Theological Undergraduate Society which came into prominence last year is continuing the interesting programme again this session. The monthly meetings have been both educational and inspirational and very well attended by the students of the various colleges. And now comes the biggest event of the year—The Annual Dinner. Those who had the privilege of attending the First Banquet and of hearing such eminent men as Bishop Parthing, Prof. Waugh, and Mr. Wm. Birks will be glad to know that the same high standard of after dinner speaking will be maintained this year.

The committee in charge is very pleased to report that the address of the evening will be given by Canon Shatford, the rector of the Church of St. James the Apostle, Rev. Mr. Shatford, it will be remembered, preached at the University service two years ago and was well received by all who heard him. He certainly has the outlook on life typical of a student, and should provide good thought for the Theologos to assimilate for their future work.

Pierre has promised a great dinner, and those who know him have visions of roast turkey and cranberry sauce as only Pierre can serve. Tickets are already on sale and may be obtained from any of the Dinner Committee at the very reasonable price of $1.25 of course such a small sum will not cover the cost of the dinner, but the Society think it worth while to bear much of the cost rather than have any student miss such an opportunity of fellowship and inspiration.

If men in other faculties should desire to have access to this dinner, the committee are willing to accommodate them at the nominal sum mentioned

MONTREAL, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1925.

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH.

In spite of the fact that examinations have once more faded away into the background for a time, and that another "last day" for the world has slipped by unevenly, many people will probably awake to-day in fear and trembling to the terrible realization that it is Friday, the thirteenth. Next month the thirteenth will again fall upon a Friday, after which 1925 will be safe from such a disaster until November.

The superstitions concerning Friday, and the number thirteen are among the few which have grown up in historical times, the majority being remains of antiquity. In Christian thought Friday has been regarded as unlucky because the Crucifixion is supposed to have taken place on that day, and thirteen as ill-omened because it involved the addition of Judas to the number of the Apostles.

Other days of the week are considered unlucky for particular enterprises in certain places, but Friday is the most generally unpopular everywhere for undertakings of all kinds. Among the enterprises for which Friday is said to be particularly unlucky are:—to begin a thing, to go courting, to transact business, to commence a voyage or journey. This tradition is particularly strong among mariners, and there are many stories of disastrous voyages begun on a Friday. In both England and America there is a persistent but not localised tradition which tells of a ship, the keel of which was laid on a Friday, set to sea on a Friday, that was launched on a Friday, under a Captain Friday. The ship was never heard of again, and with such unfavorable auspices it is reasonable to suppose that its career was not of much longer duration than that of "the three wise men of Gotham who went to sea in a bowl."

It is interesting to note what important and widespread effects a superstitious belief may have. Shipping statistics still show a smaller number of sailings on Friday than on any other day of the week. There is a street in Paris which has no number thirteen. Records taken in France and London show similar results in the lessening of railway and omnibus traffic on Friday.

Although an old proverb says of Friday, "The only lucky thing on this day, is to be born on it," it is the favourite day for marrying among the Ross-shire fishermen, and it has been estimated that ninety per cent. of the marriages in Glasgow take place on Friday.

In view of the prejudice against starting a voyage on Friday it is an odd coincidence that Columbus both sailed and discovered land on a Friday, and the Pilgrim Fathers touched land on the same day.

THE ROYAL VICTORIA COLLEGE.

It was just twenty-five years ago last September that the Royal Victoria College was opened, two months before the death of Sir William Dawson, who had long dreamt of the erection of a woman's college as part of McGill. It was made possible by an endowment from Lord Strathcona, formerly Sir Donald Smith, who had in 1884 endowed the University with a sum of money to establish the first courses given for women in McGill, and in 1886 had provided for the "Donalda" courses leading to the B.A. degree.

The changes in higher education for women have been many since 1888, when the first class of women, eight in number, took their B.A. at McGill. Now women are admitted to all faculties except that of Applied Science. Women are continuing to take a greater interest in the realm of sport and in every phase of college activity. Four years ago the first Women's Intercollegiate Basketball meet was held in Toronto. R.V.C. has taken part in Intercollegiate Debating with Queen's for the last three years, and this year Toronto also debated with Queen's and R.V.C.

It is well for us, who are inclined to take educational facilities for granted, to look back occasionally and to consider how much we are indebted to such people as Sir William Dawson for the advantages we enjoy to-day. When Sir William Dawson became Principal of McGill in 1855 there was no provision for the instruction of women, but he was convinced of the vital importance of this question, and though considerable time was required to overcome the opposition and indifference which existed, his ideal was finally attained with the formal opening of the Royal Victoria College on September the fourth, 1899.

Under The Head of "Pleasure"
At the Prom, "Yes, isn't the floor crowded. Still I suppose we might as well try to dance."

On the Golf Course, "Of all the luck! That's the seventh ball I've lost this afternoon."

At the Bridge Party, "Now if you'd only returned my club lead! But why SPADES? Why? You're certainly a great help."

On the Motor Drive, "Maybe if we turn off the main road, there'll be less dust!"

At the Picnic, "The ginger ale bottles are all broken and someone's dropped the chocolate cake in the sand."

On the Fishing Trip, "Yes, the sun's scorching but if we stick around a little while longer, we may get a bite yet."

The Moor - A Pencil Sketch

There was a bright flash, and then dusk on the moor; a dusk which almost seemed to be broken by the deep rumbling of the thunder. The lightning held sway for a moment, but now the murky dusk, the rain and wind were supreme, until the lightning should break forth again, flooding through the leafless branches he wind seemed almost to resemble the cry of a soul in torture. The rain falling in torrents, beat mercilessly down upon the heather and broken bushes which were scattered over the moor. The whole earth seemed to be crying for mercy, yet the storm kept on as though it cared not.

A few pitiful forms of small animals were seen scurrying terrified from shelter to shelter as first one and then another hiding place was destroyed by the elements. And fit beings for that setting, three witches crouched in the storm, shown by a flash of lightning, the wind tossing their bedraggled hair and rags, they seemed but a part of the moor itself.

An Essay On Feet

Sometimes, when I am in an exceedingly adventurous mood, I engage in a very dangerous, though interesting occupation. I walk along St. Catherine Street and study the feet of my co-pedestrian. It will easily be understood by the intelligent reader, that this pursuit is dangerous for two reasons. First, there is the obvious possibility of accident by a collision with a person or vehicle. Secondly, one might arouse the anger of one of the objects of study. Many possessors of large feet, do not care to have them regarded with any degree of thoroughness. But, like all serious pursuits, this one of mine is worth braving the dangers. I extract endless enjoyment and profit from my observations.

Until you have really taken up this hobby, you can have no idea how much people show of themselves in their shoes. The variety of footwear is remarkable. Of course, the veriest amateur can make a story out of a pair of patched and down-at-the-heel brogues, which have, nevertheless, a wonderful shine;—but it takes an expert to extract information from new shoes. A certain amount can be gleaned from the colours and style and size of the shoe, but the individual touch which comes only with age, is lacking;—it still only belongs to a class not to a person. It is considered against the rules of the game to raise the eyes above the ankle until a decision has been made regarding the disposition of the wearer. Sometimes a shock ensues. So many frivolous women have taken to wearing sensible shoes lately, that the study has lost much of its former accuracy.

I collect feet just as the Indians used to collect scalps, except that where he had the concrete object hanging at his belt, I have only the remembrance of an eccentric specimen to treasure. Indeed I find this study of "Pedology," as I think it should be called excellent on almost all occasions. As a street car occupation, it cannot be beaten, giving to the modern young lady, the modest counterpane and downcast eyes of a flapper of 1860. The only place where it is not a success, is to the student in the classroom. The professor should have splendid opportunities for profitable study. He could flunk or pass his pupils rather according to the merit shown by their shoes than to the knowledge which they seemed to have in their heads. I thoroughly approve of this system and hope that in future and more enlightened days it will be adopted.

A Word From The Wise

All correspondence in this department should be addressed to Winnie Wyse.

All communications must have name and address signed and must be written on only one side of the paper.

Dear Winnie Wyse:—I sit behind a charming young St. V. C. student at a 12 o'clock lecture and have heard her remark promptly at 12.20 each day that she was just starving. I am, dear Miss Wyse, a very sympathetic little boy so last Monday I purchased a ham sandwich at Goodwins and gave it to the lady in question promptly at 12.30—She was extremely grateful and made quick work of the sandwich. Since then I have not had the price of a sandwich so have not been able to attend any lectures. In desperation I am writing you.

Johnny Jump.

Answer:—Having spent your fortune on the young lady the only thing you can do now is to give up your 12 o'clock lectures as it would be improper to not to bring a sandwich to each lecture from now on.

Dear Miss Wyse:—I am a young R. V. C. Freshette and after attending lectures for the last five months I find that my heart is not with my work. I have a wonderful plan, Miss Wyse, and I want your help. I am 5' 2" tall weighing 175 pounds have straight yellow hair, blue eyes and freckles and a double chin—Do you think I would be a success on the stage in Shakespearean roles?

With Love

Dotty Dimple

P. S. I have read "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet" in my English course.

Answer:—I am sure you would be a huge success. You are the exact type for Juliet and would also do well as Jessica in "The Merchant of Venice".

Dear Miss Wyse:—I am in first year Arts and only got five first classes in my mid-term exams: (1) Do you think I'll pass in May? (2) Is it proper to smile at the R. V. C. students I meet on the campus? (3) Could you suggest a mild cigarette as I am about to take up smoking? (4) I am very anxious to be invited to V. C. Sunday tea but do not know any co-eds. how shall I proceed about an invitation? (5) Is 10 o'clock too late for a boy eighteen years, three months and twenty-one days to stay up?

P. S. Are all women wicked?

Answer:—(1) You might possibly pass if you work very hard from now till exam time. (2) Only if they smile at you first. (3) Honey-suckle. (4) These functions are very select I am afraid your cause is hopeless. (5) Yes, much too late. You should retire not later than 9.55. (6) Everyone of them.

INVADING AMERICANS MET DEFEAT

and almost scored on the Dartmouth goalie who just saved it. Fryberger rushed but McMahon got away supported by Mickles, they were checked by the Green defence, and Manser and Howe skated down to be checked again by Hayes. O'Donnell shot a nasty one which Anthony caught nicely. Rowe and Manser early scored but McMahon got the puck shooting along one which the Dartmouth goalie easily stopped. Dartmouth nearly scored out of a scuffle in front of Cameron's net, but Abbott emerged with the puck but was unable to get it near the Dartmouth goalie. The Green Captain got the rubber and fired a beautiful shot which Cameron stopped. Three times the Dartmouth forwards nearly scored but Cameron's nice work kept the puck out. Abbott and McMahon skated down the ice but were stopped by the Dartmouth defence, Hayes drew the first penalty of the game when he tripped Manser. Playing entirely on the offensive the Green team endeavoured to score but were unable to do so before the gong sounded.

Period ended score McGill 2. Dartmouth 1.

The line up was as follows:—

"McGILL NIGHT" AT SYNAGOGUE SUCCESS

The negative side, upheld by Miss R. Rudy and Nathan Reich, won out at the Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue the other night, when the Macabean Circle staged a debate at the annual "McGill Night" given by the Young People's Society of the Synagogue. The subject was, "Resolved that the war and its consequences have done more harm than good for the Jews." Miss S. Lazarovitch and Bernard Cohen upheld the affirmative.

Miss Lazarovitch, for the affirmative, in her address maintained that the massacres and suffering brought on by the war on the Jews, together with the wave of anti-semitism which followed, all served to bring great harm to the people.

Miss R. Rudy, for the negative, pointed to Russia and the great liberties that had come there to the Jews as compared with the sufferings under the Czarist regime. Bernard Cohen took issue with those statements, pointing to the Soviet rule as one under which the Jews are enduring much hardship.

Nathan Reich summed up the case for the negative. He spoke in a most forceful manner, scoring a personal triumph in his refutation of the points brought up by the affirmative. The verdict of the judges was unanimously in favor of the negative.

The Fels Brothers rendered two piano duets, and informal dancing completed the evening.

POST MORTEM

Well, they came, they saw, and in many cases they conquered. However, we have four months now, before the terrible onslaught of the June exams. Remember, if you amass enough absences you will not be compelled to take the final tests.

R.V.C. BASKETBALL TEAM LEAVE SOON

Macdonald and the T. W. C. A. twice R. V. C. have a good share of victories to their credit, though they suffered defeat at the hands of the M. S. P. E. in a match played before Christmas. To-morrow morning when the return game will be played R. V. C. will endeavour to retrieve themselves from their defeat by their sisters at McGill.

Unfortunately last year's graduating class took with it three members of the basketball team; Miss P. Murray and Miss E. Russel who played forward, and the jumping centre, Miss C. Fraser. Though severely handicapped, the present players are putting forth every effort to cover up this loss and the College is fortunate in still retaining two members of the 1923 championship team. The final line-up has not yet been selected for the Intercollegiate games but this will probably be carried out by the end of next week.

The basketball manager and captain, Miss E. Dorton was a member of the 1923 team as well as that of last year. When playing in Kingston she and Miss J. Cameron occupied the position of guard and they may be relied upon this year to repeat their excellent defence work.

Miss R. Dorton who is the other member of the 1923 championship team has been playing a consistently brilliant game and in her position as side-centre she is invaluable to the team.

Miss M. McWaters who played as spare in last year's intercollegiate team has been making an excellent showing with the speed and accuracy. Miss P. Percy who also went to Kingston last year as a spare shot, has been playing well this year and may be relied upon to be "on the spot" when she is required.

Although Miss I. Allen who also plays forward has had no intercollegiate experience she has made a good showing this year in the inter-class and college games.

Miss M. Ratner as Jumping Centre also played well in the inter-class games this year; while Miss. Chalk of Fourth Year has done well in the position of forward. There are several players from First Year who have attracted attention, the Misses E. Brooks, B. Byers, J. Eve and M. McMartin have all played well in the inter-class and college games and the prospect is indeed cheerful with such promising players in the Freshman class.

The Normad's Song

(By Margaret Amy Ross.)

Peace, for the night has fallen,
Sleep of the grasslands lie
Side by side, while the herdsman
Sleep "neath the eastern sky.

Praise be to Allah, who brought us
Close to the White Walled town,
And lit the stars in Paradise,
That cast their radiance down

Down on our camps and our watch
fires,

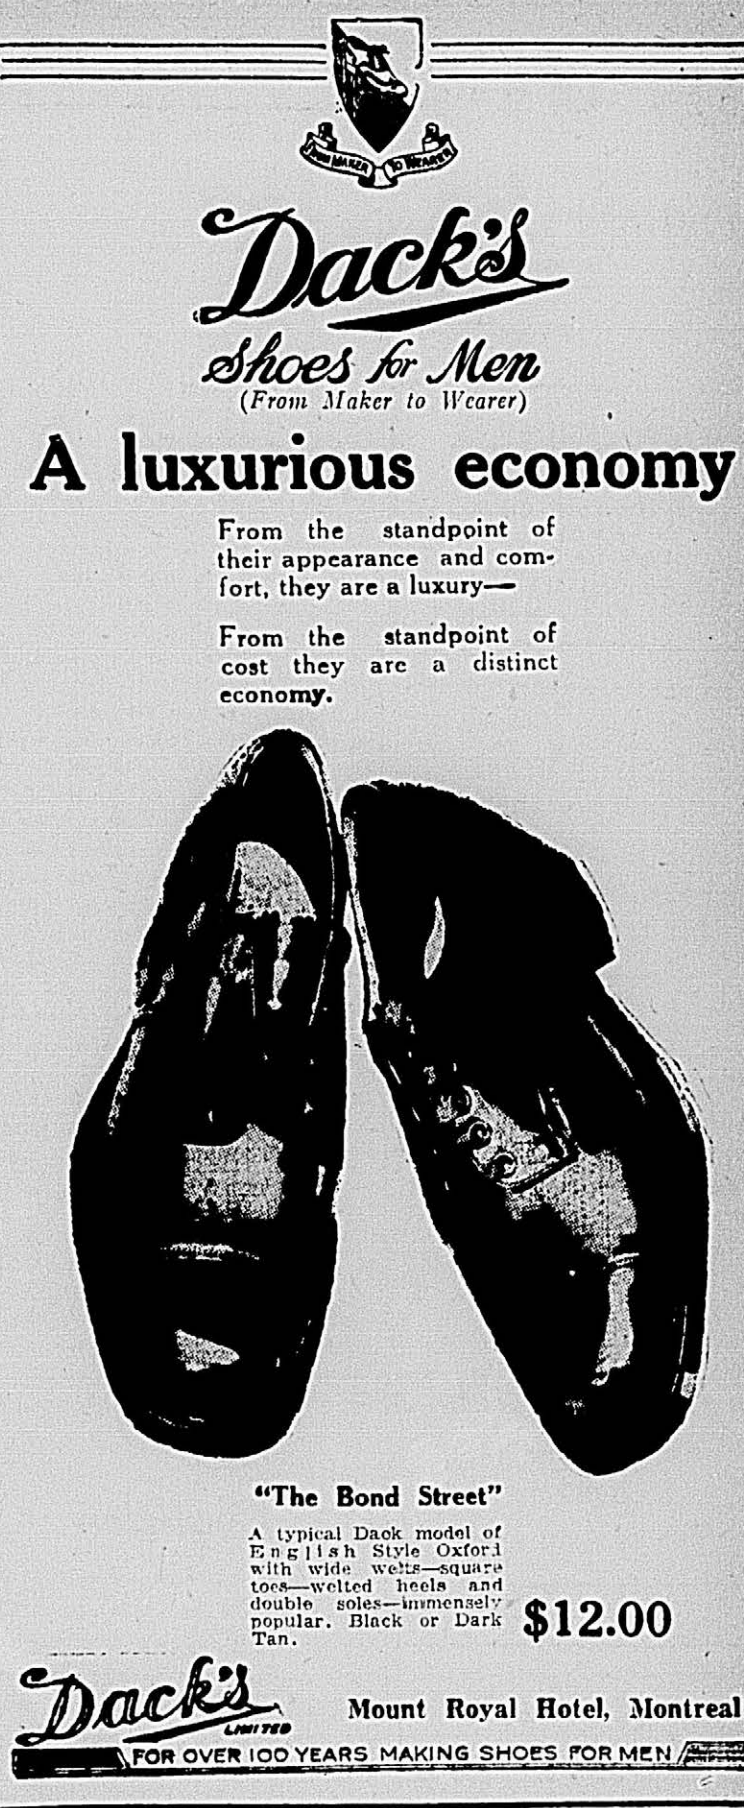

Bringing us comfort and cheer,
They have shown us an end to our Wanderings.

They have shone for us year by year,
To-morrow's sun shall behold us
Thronging 'yon city's street

To barter and trade in the market
For rye and millet and wheat

This is the song of the Normad
Under the clear starred sky.

His is the soul of the desert wilds,
A soul that can never die.

Parliamentary News

Canadian immigration will be thrashed out from every conceivable angle on Tuesday night when the Mock Parliament will convene some of the best speakers of the University will be heard when government and opposition forces clash over what is probably the most vital issue confronting Canada to-day.

The Right Honorable Jack Spector "the grand old man from Quebec" and Prime Minister, leader of the Reform party intimated yesterday that the Reform forces were busily engaged preparing for the fray.

"Canada must be opened up, much wider than it is to-day and much wider than it can be under a policy based on the United States quota law," he declared "We need new blood, more wealth. We must grow large enough to occupy this vast Dominion of ours which is capable of supporting a population three times in excess the present one. I know that the restrictionists will raise a hue and cry over any attempt to increase Canada population unless such attempts be selective. To them I say that the Reform policy is "Canada first Undesirables will be excluded, but the Reform administration will earnestly refuse to brand as undesirable those who are capable of making this country greater and better."

It is rumoured that certain changes in the cabinet will soon occur tending to make it even more representative than it is at present.

The Hon. S. Schwisberg and the Hon. G. W. Goforth will open the debate for the Government upon the introduction by the Opposition of a resolution to the effect that Canadian immigration be restricted along the lines of the present system adopted by the United States. The debate will then be open to the house.

Coalition

Telegrams have been received from all parts of the Dominion congratulating the leader of the Liberal party on his arrangement with the Conservative party; whereby both the Liberal and Conservative parties will combine to put the present Reform government out of office. There is a distinct feeling of optimism throughout the country due to the fact that the coalition under the leadership of the Hon. John P. Humphrey is expected to take over the reins of power in a very short time. Just how long the coalition will last is not certain. The present situation in Canadian politics really is the coalition of the Conservative and Liberal parties in 1866. In that time, however the object was to make Confederation possible and to overcome the deadlock then existing between George Brown and John A. MacDonald.

The Reform party intend to vote against the proposed immigration Bill. The government has a direct interest in voting against the bill in that the largest employers of cheap labour, who have been the source of the Reformers' funds for some time, are using every means in order to throw out the bill. It has even been rumoured that secret negotiations have been entered into between the government and the heads of certain large Canadian enterprises. Nevertheless the Rt. Hon. Jack Spector has signified the intention of considering the Immigration Bill as a want of confidence motion.

The proposed Immigration Bill has been introduced for the purpose of keeping Canada British. It will not put any serious restriction on immigration from England, Ireland, Scotland, the United States or Northern European countries, but will put a definite restriction on immigration from Southern Europe, Toronto, the Orient and other countries whose citizens do not seem to make good Canadians.

The Hon. John Humphrey, leader of the coalition has announced that if the combine is a successful the following men will probably have positions on his cabinet. They are the Hon. W. W. Goforth, the Hon. Lovell Mickle, the Hon. Lindsay Webster, the Hon. Murray Angevine, the Hon. R. Smith, the Hon. Don Patton, the Hon. Terry Mitchell, the Hon. Quinlan, the Hon. John Maughan, the Hon. Ken Henderson, the Hon. Scoop Elliot, the Hon. Harrison Hayes and others whose names will be published in the near future.

MUSSEAU AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Feb. 12th, 1925: The leader of the Opposition, the Hon. Humphrey is at present touring the country searching for new members and strength for his party born from the discontent among the conservative ranks. Embarrassed regarding the platform to be adopted, the present leader of the Opposition outlined in his statement to the press, on the 11th of February, the very principles for which the Reform Party withstood onslaught after onslaught at the hands of the late Glasco administration. A careful survey of Hon. Humphrey's policy reveals nothing new but vague and already admitted principles.

The Spector government is now very strong and will pass any legislation which would benefit Canada.

The general opinion throughout the country favors another session and if the government listens to the national expression of Canada no elections are to be held this year.

The bill submitted to the House at the next session while very conservative yet embodies progressive measures.

The Government may probably accept in the near future the reforms submitted by the Hon. R. Giles Musseau, minister of Marine and Fisheries. The Hon. member from Vaudeville-Soulanges did advise the Government on many occasions to get rid of the C. G. M. M. a all costs.

Although, the Prime Minister, the Right Hon. Jack Spector did not yet commit himself it is to be assumed that he does share the views of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Must Be Identified

Charles was cashier in a bank in a little town. He had been engaged to Mary Brown, but alas, a rift came in the lute. They quarreled. "And please remember," said Mary, in haughty tones, as she handed back the ring, "that when we meet, we meet as perfect strangers."

A few days later Mary entered the bank to cash a check. Charlie took the slip of paper, eyed it back and front, and then, instead of counting out the money, handed back the check. "I'm sorry," he said coldly, "but it is against the rules to cash checks for perfect strangers. You must be identified."

STUDENT COMPLEXITIES

Isn't it the deuce
When your prof tells you
To prepare a topic,
And you think
You'll not bother—
He's absent minded.
AND
THEN
He calls for it,
And you haven't got it,
And you feel
Like a German mark.
And, oh yes, just to make it good—
He's so sweet—
He makes you write it
A couple of million times;
Jumping Jupiter! Isn't it the deuce?
AND
THEN
Doesn't it make you mad
When you look it up,
And you're all set,
Just rarin'
To do your stuff,
And the prof
Forgets all about it,
And never says a word!!!!
AND
They HANG pictures!

Richard Crashev M. P. who is offered fifty thousand pounds if he is willing to accept with it the name of Wurzel Plummery. The ambitious M. P. persuades himself that it is his duty to accept the money as a "sacred trust". He is mortified to discover that a similar offer has been made to one of his political opponents, a young man who is in love with Crashev's daughter, Viola. Both men discover that the leacacies were left them in the spirit of a sporting bet, and both moved by different motives, except the money and take the name of Wurzel Plummery. The daughter is thus placed in a rather embarrassing position but she realizes that she may just as well be Mrs. as Miss Wurzel Plummery. Mrs. G. H. Cook takes the part of the daughter Viola. Other parts are taken by Miss I. Brittan, Mrs. Terence McDermott, Mr. H. A. Smith and Mr. Terence McDermott.

The second part of the programme is a satirical dialogue entitled "Overtones." Two women, Harriet and Margaret exchange polite nothings over the tea cups while their shadows, primitive selves lurk in the back ground and actually say what the well bred women of the world only think. The primitive and cultured selves never come into actual physical contact but sustain the impression of mental conflict. The play is extremely clever both from a satirical and a psychological standpoint.

Miss J. Foster and Miss C. MacKenzie take the parts of the primitive women Hetty and Maggie, while the cultured women of the world are represented by Miss M. Fry and Miss J. Nichol.

The programme will be presented on two consecutive nights, March 6th and 7th, and a capacity house is expected at both performances.

The following is the programme:

WURZEL PLUMMERY—A Comedy of Manners—By A. A. Milne
Parts to be taken by Miss I. Brittan, Mrs. G. H. Cook, Mrs. Terence McDermott, Col. R. R. Thompson, Mr. H. A. Smith, Mr. Terence McDermott.

OVERTONES—A Satire—By Alice Gerstenberg
Parts to be taken by Miss Joan Foster, Miss Catherine MacKenzie, Miss Jean Nichol, Miss Mary Fry.

HELENA'S HUSBAND—A Historical Comedy—By Philip Moeller
Parts to be taken by Miss Jocelyn Patton, Miss Jeannie Robbins, Dr. E. W. Gettys, Dr. E. S. Bieler, Mr. J. Taylor.

Tickets (one dollar) may be obtained from: The Secretary of the Royal Victoria College The McGill Library, Miss Jean Nichol 110 Columbia Avenue, Phone Westmount 17 57, Miss Christine Rorke, 1979 Hutcheson Street, Phone Atlantic 0404.

Fists Falls and Foils

Although the wrestlers are working steadily in preparation for the Assault-at-Arms in Toronto next week the men who have made the team are not turning out the way they should. Most men think that since they are not on the squad it is of no use to work further at the game, but they should realize that they are probably killing their chances of making next year's team.

The boxers are in very fine shape for their meet next Saturday afternoon with M. I. T. (Boston Tech.) This will be McGill's first intercollegiate meet of the year and should offer some fine boxing as well as a chance to see how the team is shaping up for the Toronto meet. The Boston club is sending up six men, no 112 lb., 175., or heavies, but there are two men in the 135 lb. class. All the McGill men who will fight in the Assault-at-Arms, with the exception of Schleiffner and the light heavies, will be seen in action. The bouts will start at 2.15 p. m.

Apologetics

I tried to write a verse
To you.
But as I wrote it, worse
It grew:
For all the silly rhymes
Could say
Was said a thousand times
That way.
In vain in poetry
I tried:
Bright imag'y from me
Did hide.
And so, in well-resigned
Despair,
I left the empty couplet
there. . . . .
Why seek lambs' trite
To tell
What eyes and lips express
So well?
